CASES WILL BE HANGED

London, June 29.—Sir Roger Casement was today found guilty of high treason in the High Court of Justice. The jury was out only fifteen minutes.

Immediately after the verdict was returned, Casement was sentenced to death by Baron Reading, the lord chief justice. He will be hanged.

At the verdict, Casement stood up bravely under the blow. He had evidently entertained little hope from the beginning of the trial.

High treason defined.
In defining high treason in his charge to the jury, Baron Reading said that if one of the six overt acts charged against the prisoner was found properly proved, then that meant that a verdict of guilty should be returned.

He said that the law, as laid down by the lord chief justice, said that if the prisoner knew that his actions were helping the enemies of England, then, although he had no other motive, he was aiding and abetting the enemy.

It was claimed that the leading men in Ireland might arouse civil war and embrace the government, then he would be aiding people hostile to England, Baron Reading pointed out.

Summing up by counsel.
Alexander Sullivan, chief counsel of Sir Roger, was ill and unable to appear in court. Arthur James, who represented Casement at the preliminary hearing, completed the summing up for the defence in the absence of the senior counsel. Sullivan had continued on Page 6, Column 6.

Deny Arrival of German U-Boat at American Port

By International News Service.
Norfolk, Va., June 29.—Reports that a German submarine had entered the Virginia capes were today denied at the office of Norman Hamilton, collector of the port. Hamilton's assistant said that he had heard for the last three days that a German U-boat was coming here, but that up to 1 o'clock this afternoon none had been sighted.

The collector has asked the weather bureau observer at the capes and the Virginia Pilot Association, which would furnish the pilot to guide the vessel in after it reaches the three-mile limit, to report at once the sighting of any vessel of this character.

Traps are crisscrossing outside of the capes which are said to have been fired by the German embassy to wait for the undersea craft if it comes to this port.

PASS BILL TO GUARD CANAL FROM SPIES

Washington, June 29.—Rigid regulations to protect the Panama Canal from spies and bombs were provided in a bill passed by the Senate today.

The bill was introduced by Senator O'Gorman of New York, chairman of the Inter-American canal committee, at the request of the War Department, Secretary Brandegee.

It provides for the establishment of a military zone around the canal, and for the use of the air to guard the canal from spies and bombs.

GENERAL HILL IS REPORTED SLAIN

El Paso, Tex., June 29.—General Benjamin Hill, commander of the Federal District of Mexico and ex-commander of Carranza troops in Sonora, was killed by a French merchant in Mexico City when he refused to pay for a hat he had bought, according to the stories told by Spanish refugees arriving today.

An army officer with Hill then killed the merchant.

BARREFOOT PROBOTS CAMP

Camp Whitney, Framingham, June 29.—Hundreds of recruits of the Massachusetts militia drilled here today in the hot sun, scantily clad, many barefooted.

Conditions in the camp of the recruits are the subject of much criticism. When the majority of recruits enlisted they were dressed in their working clothes. They expected that the government would immediately furnish them with uniforms.

Application has been made for the recruits, but uniforms have not yet been received here. As a result, the recruits are forced to wear the clothing which they had on when they enlisted to join the colors.

WOMEN GIVEN AID

The recruits have not been supplied with underwear and stockings. Most of them were stockings when they enlisted, but they have become worn out and in most cases have been thrown away.

The Ladies Aid Society for American Preparedness has assisted the recruits as much as possible. Mrs. Williams, wife of Sergeant-General Frank P. Williams, was informed about the condition of the camp at Framingham with the result that Mrs. Harvey Wendell and other women connected with that organization visited it.

The women brought with them 2,500 face towels, a large supply of soap, tooth powder and tooth brushes. Other women who were told of the trials of the recruits have them come, underwear and other useful gifts.

LACK SUITABLE FOOD

The recruits are anxiously waiting for the War Office to forward their uniforms and other army equipment. They are particularly in need of shoes, as the eight hours of drilling which they have gone through each day while they arrived here has worn out their shoes.

Some of the recruits have difficulty

FINED $25 FOR USE OF ACID ON MEAT
John Wallack, a South Boston provision dealer, at No. 243 D street, for using sulphuric acid in preserving meat and exposing for sale, today was fined $25.

MULTI-CROSSES BORDER

Columbus, N. M., June 29.—Reports of heavy concentration of Mexican soldiers in the vicinity of Columbus resulted today in several truckloads of New Mexico militiamen leaving for the international boundary and bringing back to Columbus a large number of cavalry elements which were being sent to General Pershing.

The reports were turned back southward at Columbus, and orders were issued for a quick reconnaissance of the district about Guadalupe, near the American line of communication. Friendly here does not permit details of the precautionary step taken. Today was the first time this national armistice have crossed the line.

Washington, June 29.—Regardless of the news, officially confirmed by dispatches from General Funston, that the American prisoners of the battle at Carrizal have been released and are now nearing the border at Juarez, the United States is preparing as energetically as ever for any emergency.

In a word, the crisis between this government and the southern republic is still acute. Carranza has yielded, it is pointed out, only on one issue; the big and fundamental issue in the trouble between the two republics have yet to be settled, and until they are satisfactorily disposed of the danger of armed conflict is regarded as most serious.

The outstanding features in today's news are these:

1.—Washington officially informed of release of Carrizal captives; that they are now on way to United States border; that Carranza has replied to the other captives in the situation of last Sunday.

2.—Latin-American envoys who called on Secretary of State Lansing are told that the United States cannot authorize any offer of mediation now.

3.—Pershing's attempt by Mexicans to destroy the large oil wells in the Tampico district, Commander Burrage of the battleship Nebraska, at Vera Cruz, has ordered the gunboats Maestas and Miraflores to Tampico to take up the best tactical position for protecting the fields.

4.—The State Department receives official confirmation of the joining by Carranza soldiers of the American consulate at Nogales, Sonora.

5.—Preparations for emergency with Mexico feverishly pushed by army and navy departments. Troops and munitions rushed to the border.

The conference between the Latin-American diplomatic representatives and Secretary Lansing was arranged by Dr. Calderon, the Bolivian Minister, as the news of the release of the American prisoners was confirmed.

To their suggestion that it might

Late Mexico Bulletins

Galveston, Tex., June 29.—The naval collier Dixie arrived here today with 775 refugees from the Tampico district of Mexico. Nineteen other refugees from Puerto came in aboard the Fort Morgan.

Washington, June 29.—The looked-for reply of General Carranza to the demands of the United States that he make public through the proper diplomatic channels his attitude toward the American expedition now in Mexico, has not yet reached the State Department. The overnight messages from Consul-General Rodgers fail to mention the note.

Chicago, June 29.—The First and Second Battalions of the "Dandy Fifth," one of Massachusetts' crack regiments, arrived in Chicago today over the Erie and departed southward a short time later. The men were stiff and cramped from the long ride. Impromptu races and boxing matches to get the kinks out of their limbs filled in the time here.

ADMITS TRYING NEW HAMPSHIRE TO WRECK 9TH REG'T. TRAIN NEED MEN

Rochester, N. Y., June 29.—Arthur Johnson, a negro, thirty-nine years old, of New Orleans, was arrested this morning at Ligon on a charge of attempting to wreck one of the six special trains passing westward over the New York Central Lines and bearing the Ninth Regiment of Massachusetts militia.

Johnson has admitted that he tried to wreck the train and was held for the Grand Jury. He said he had a grievance against the railroad, which caused his arrest and imprisonment in Buffalo recently.

On Tuesday night members of a switch engine crew discovered railroad ties bound across three tracks just west of Lock Berlin, near Clyde.

The ties had been securely fastened to the rails and it was with some difficulty that they were removed in time to permit train 28, a fast New York express, to pass. In fact, the ties were torn away just as the express was sighted. A flag held up the train, however.

The troop train carrying the Massachusetts soldiers were directly in the path of the express. The train of Brooklyn was due an hour after the express. Information of the bridge company at the attempt was suppressed until this morning.

HATCH WOODPECKER IN A HEN'S NEST

Federalburg, Md., June 29.—It is unusual for a hen to hatch out a woodpecker, but an instance is recorded by Mrs. Corry, a farmer living near here. The hen had been missing for some time. When found she was mothering eleven tiny chicks and one tiny woodpecker. The woodpecker's appearance is explained on the supposed fact that the hen had laid the egg in the hen's nest while the hen was out looking for food.

DAUGHTER OF LORD STOSWOLD ENGAGED

London, June 29.—The phonograph of Edith Wynn, daughter of Lord and Lady Stoswold, is betrothed to Guy West-Macott of the Grenadier Guards, only son of Major-General Sir Hubert and Lady West-Macott.

MEN WHO BALKED AT OATH STRIPPED AND HEADS SHAVED

That militiamen at Camp Whitney were mistreated because they refused to take the Federal oath became known today. These acts were specified as having taken place under the eyes of commissioned officers.

Troopers who refused to take the oath were grouped and soldiers armed with horsewhips cracked the lashes at the men for a period of half an hour.

The heads of militiamen who had refused to be sworn in were then shaved except for "furrows" of hair about three-quarters of an inch wide, running from ear to ear and from forehead to the back of the neck and crossing on the top of the skull.

One militiaman suffered the loss of half his moustache. The men were stripped to the skin of their clothing, it is claimed.

About a dozen militiamen were thus mistreated, according to the story of one of the number, Dr. Clarence B. Livingston, a well-known Lowell physician.

Dr. Livingston says that the acts were not only countenanced by the commissioned officers, but that the latter "stood around laughing." The physician says that in his own case an officer insisted that the treatment be meted out to the Lowell man.

The physician declared that men in the 9th Battery of the Field Artillery and living in Lowell and Lawrence were among the sufferers.

HEADS WERE SHAVED.
Henry J. Maguire, employed in the Lowell Postoffice, was named as having suffered the loss of half his moustache by being shaved off. Among his fellow sufferers were those of the men whose hair was shaved from their heads were Donald Ritchie and Cyrus Woodman, both of Lowell.

It was pointed out today that the Cobb, who is in charge of the work, has issued a booklet, "Knit for the Soldier," which contains the pattern for the socks. The booklet may be obtained for 25 cents from the Red Cross Society.

Boyd Was Warned but Thought Gomez Was Buffing, Says Guide

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.
Mexico City, June 28 (via El Paso, Tex., June 29).—In reply to Chief Executive Carranza's request for a full report on the Carrizal battle, General Jacobo B. Trevino has transmitted from Chihuahua City a statement, which he says was given to by General H. Spillbury, the civilian interpreter, who accompanied the American force to Carrizal.

In this statement, which was made public today, Spillbury told the American soldiers responsible for the conflict. He says that General Gomez, the Mexican commander, was courteous in his warning to the Tenth Cavalry, and that Captain Charles T. Boyd thought the Mexicans were "buffing." Spillbury's statement follows:

My name is General H. Spillbury, and I have been interpreter for General Trevino since the troops entered Mexico. I was without employment and stone broke through no work going on around Pearson, near which place I live.

I speak good Spanish, having been raised here. I left Casa Grande Sunday morning as interpreter for Captain Boyd. There were eighty-seven men all told, being forty-one of C Troop and forty-five of K Troop. Captain Meyer and Lieutenant Adair were with the men, all of the Tenth Cavalry.

SENT MESSENGER AHEAD.
Captain Boyd sent into Carrizal a messenger to the Tenth Cavalry, telling him to pass through Villa Ahumada and for him to advise the military authorities.

General Gomez sent out Lieutenant-Colonel Rivas with an escort of eighty men to tell us that he had orders to stop us there until he heard further.

Captain Boyd said he had heard of a robbery in Santo Domingo and the presence of bandits there and he wanted to run them down. He wanted also to recapture a deserter who had got away.

Lieutenant-Colonel Rivas replied that there was no bandits in that place and that they would have to pass over their dead bodies.

After further talk he retired back to the town, and General Gomez sent word asking the Americans to come in the town for a conference.

Captain Boyd did not like the idea, and he did not believe that General Gomez called him personally and repeated his orders that he should not pass through Carrizal. He said that he had instructions from General Trevino that if Americans moved to the town, they would be shot.

Captain Boyd admitted that he had heard of a robbery in Santo Domingo and the presence of bandits there and he wanted to run them down. He wanted also to recapture a deserter who had got away.

General Gomez had replied to his men, who were lined up on the outside of the town, that they should not pass through Carrizal. He said that he had instructions from General Trevino that if Americans moved to the town, they would be shot.

N. Y. Militia in Wreck on Way to Border

By International News Service.
Terry Haute, Ind., June 28.—The first wreck of a military train occurred here today, when a switch engine sidetracked the edge of the train carrying New York troops to the border.

Several Chivalry of Company C, Seventy-first New York Regiment, was slightly injured and several men of the company were absent. Many troops jumped to save themselves.

A caboose on the rear end was turned over and the rear passenger coach badly shaken up. A switcher was involved in the wreck.

The ten men who were holding our horses fled with the last and were surrounded and held to surrender. I saw the dead bodies of Boyd and Adair and the bodies of twelve negroes, although they might have been more. I do not know how many were killed.

General Gomez had replied to his men, who were lined up on the outside of the town, that they should not pass through Carrizal. He said that he had instructions from General Trevino that if Americans moved to the town, they would be shot.

Captain Boyd admitted that he had heard of a robbery in Santo Domingo and the presence of bandits there and he wanted to run them down. He wanted also to recapture a deserter who had got away.

Illegalities Puzzle Cole

Assistant-General Charles H. Cole, chief of the Massachusetts militia, today declared his belief that the 3000 May State troopers now speeding on to the frontier under command of Brigadier-General E. Loring Swenson could not be sent into Mexico except under the draft of President Wilson.

General Cole also declared that emigrant constitutional lawyers had raised the point that the President of the United States could not draft the men for duty in a foreign country.

General Cole also stated his further belief that the May State troopers could not be compelled to cross the border unless they volunteered for this service.

If the options stated today by General Cole are sound, the administering of the Federal oath, which raised such a hubbub at Camp Whiting late Saturday night and early Sunday morning, is now regarded as a particularly odd by which the May State troopers agreed to accept an order of the President for service within the borders of this country.

COLE PERSPECTIVE.

The taking of the oath is said to have merely made the May State troopers eligible to receive subsidies from the Federal government and to have eliminated the former constitutional necessity of the Governor of the State to issue a call before the troops could perform service outside the State.

General Cole further admitted to the fact that he was perplexed by the entire situation. The perplexing question that confront him is this: What is to be done with the 250 or 300 May State militiamen who were illegally discharged because they refused to take the Federal oath?

What is to be done with the 3000 May State troopers who refused to take the Federal oath because they were discharged because the State erroneously believed they had to have the written consent of their parents?

Did the National Defense bill which suspended all previously existing militia laws become operative June 2 or will it become effective Saturday, July 1?

What is to be done with the 3000 May State troopers who were illegally discharged because they pleaded the poverty of their dependents?

Will the Sixth Regiment of Infantry and the other units that were not called for service be obliged to take the Federal oath?

The case of the government against George A. Whitmore, a State street broker, charged with the larceny of $125,000 from Mrs. Harriet M. Huntington, an aged widow of Central avenue, Hyde Park, will go to trial July today.

The Congress Should Exercise Its Rightful Constitutional Powers

To the Congress of the United States:

SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES, we ask you to consider with care the propositions which follow, not because they are submitted by this newspaper, but because they are, of themselves, weighty and important.

Senators and Representatives, for many years now there has been a steady encroachment by the Executive branch of our Government upon the Constitutional powers and duties of the Congress, until we have come to that dangerous pass in which the Congress has become, in the most serious relations of government, a mere second fiddle, permitted only to follow and to echo the decisions of the President and his Cabinet.

Look at the situation now confronting the nation. Who asks what the Congress means to do? What are the headlines in the newspapers, what the inquiries which men make of one another?

Does anybody say, "Will Congress make war?"

Or does anybody ask, "What is Congress going to do about these Mexican murders and outrages?"

Why, Senators and Representatives, your possible action is never mentioned. It is taken for granted that you will do just what the President tells you to do, or, rather, that you will ratify what the President informs you that he has already done.

In our relations with Germany, with Austria, with Great Britain and with Mexico, so full of danger during the past months, you have had no more weight than if you had not been in session at all.

You Senators and you Representatives have actually not even been permitted to know what the decisions of Mr. Wilson and Colonel House were until those decisions were on their way by cable to foreign governments.

Now, we say to you that this is a dangerous condition of affairs, because it is an overthrow of your Constitutional powers and duties and a usurpation by the Executive branch of our three-fold Government of power and authority, which are expressly lodged in the Congress of the United States by the Constitution of the United States—and which are, both directly and by implication, forbidden to the President of the United States.

And we say that, both in self-respect and as a matter of obligation to the Constitution and as an insurance of our future Constitutional government and liberties, you are highly bound to put an end to this state of affairs and to resume the exercise of that authority and those prerogatives which our Great Charter of Government gives to you and to you only.

What says the Constitution? It says:

"THE CONGRESS shall have power: to . . . provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States;

"TO DEFINE and punish piracies and felonies COMMITTED ON THE HIGH SEAS, AND OFFENCES AGAINST THE LAW OF NATIONS;

"TO DECLARE WAR, grant letters of marque and reprisal and MAKE RULES CONCERNING CAPTURES ON LAND AND WATER;

"To raise and support armies;

"To provide a navy;

"To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrection and repel invasion;

"To make ALL LAWS which shall be necessary and proper for carrying INTO EXECUTION the foregoing powers;

These are your powers, Senators and Representatives, and it is as clear as day that the framers of the Constitution meant that the Congress should exercise these powers, not by direction of the President, but upon their own deliberation and decision.

The intention of the Constitution is that the Congress shall deliberate upon and decide upon all these matters, provide the formal legislation and DIRECT THE PRESIDENT TO CARRY OUT THE WILL AND MANDATE OF CONGRESS.

But, gentlemen, as things now are, the President deliberates and decides upon these matters and sends the Congress directions to pass legislation to enable him to do what he has decided to do.

In THEORY, Senators and Representatives, you are the lawmaking body whose decisions, both in domestic and in foreign matters, the President is your executive to enforce.

In PRACTICE, you are a rubber stamp. Understand that we are not now speaking in personal criticism of Woodrow Wilson. He is simply carrying out the practice and following the precedents set by former Presidents, most notably of all by President Roosevelt, whose contempt of the Constitutional limitations was without limit.

Now, Senators and Representatives, unless you are willing to see our government change from a government by the people's representatives to a government by one man—to what will really be an elective monarchy—you must stop this encroachment upon the powers and prerogatives of Congress.

And it seems to us that the emergencies of this very present time both provide a wonderful opportunity and an urgent appeal to you to resume your original and undoubted Constitutional functions and authority.

Gentlemen of the Congress of the United States, it is YOUR business to decide this Mexican question. It is NOT President Wilson's business.

We read daily in the public prints such headlines as these:

"Wilson May Declare War."
"President Will Investigate Conduct of American Troops Before Declaring War."

"Wilson Will Offer Carranza Opportunity to Apologize Before Declaring to Make War."

Et cetera, et cetera, ad nauseam.

Now, we declare to you, members of Congress, that this sort of thing is a striking proof of the low plane to which you and your predecessors have allowed your dignity and authority to fall.

For these newspaper writers and the mass of the people, too, never doubt that Mr. Wilson is the one man who has the right to decide whether Mexico shall be disciplined or not.

It never occurs to any of these Americans—who are intelligent Americans, too—to suspect that YOU, and YOU ONLY, Senators and Representatives, have the Constitutional power and authority to speak peace or war.

So high has the presidential authority been UNLAWFULLY elevated, so low has fallen the LAWFUL authority of the Congress!

But it makes no difference whether Mr. Wilson is following precedents or making precedents, or whether his purpose is good or bad. This continual, persistent, unconstitutional encroachment of the Executive upon the Constitutional prerogatives and lawful powers of the Congress must be stopped in the interest of future safety and liberty. For, Senators and Representatives, unless you do resume your powers, our government will rapidly change from a government by the people's representatives to a government by a President, a government of one man, an elective monarchy, under the disguise of a republic.

Senators and Representatives, you should, in this grave emergency, resume your Constitutional powers and prerogatives.

You should take this Mexican question out of the jurisdiction of the President, where it does NOT belong, and as the representatives of the American people and the SOLE lawful and Constitutional repository of the war-making power, and as the branch of our three-fold government whose right it is to direct the Executive what to do, and not to be directed what to do by the Executive, you should publicly decide whether or not the United States shall proceed forcibly to restore order and to end anarchy in unhappy Mexico.

Gentlemen of the Congress, resume the exercise of the authority with which the Great Charter of our liberties and our laws expressly clothes you.

Let us keep this a republic in deed as well as in theory. Let us maintain what our fathers established—a government of the people, by the people, for the people.

You will need the hearty and enthusiastic applause and support of all your countrymen, Senators and Representatives, whenever you make a bold and firm stand for the rights, the dignity and the lawful authority of the Congress.

Baseball

By William F. Kirk

"I SEE the French have stormed Le Dix,"
Said Mrs. Upson Downes:
"By using some new-fangled tricks
They took a dozen towns."
"I see that Evans' feeling grand
And has his batting eye,
And Maranville is on the job,"
Her husband made reply.

"This war," said Mrs. Upson Downes,
"Is getting on my nerves;
I dream of plumes where shrapnel rains
Or fields and wooded curves."
"This Tyler is a wonder, kid—
He'll make 'em look like clowns;
He'll fool 'em as he always did,"
Said Mr. Upson Downes.

Blessed be baseball! Through the gloom
With which our world is dark
A ray of light is gleaming bright—
We're going to the park!
The youngest squires, the fat men shoo—
Let's go and see them play!
The game that everybody loves
Tugs at our hearts today.

Each Atom a Universe, and Perhaps Inhabited, Says Garrett P. Serviss

Complete Solar Systems of 1,000 to 225,000 Coruscules Speeding 100,000 Miles in a Second May Possibly Support Beings That Live a Lifetime in a Fifty-Billionth of a Second.

By Garrett P. Serviss

WE are beginning to get glimpses into the world of the infinitely little which starts the imagination even more than the vast spectacles of the firmament above.

The unloking of the atom, within the past few years, has revealed the fact that all things about us, even our very bodies, are made up of miniature solar systems, spinning so swiftly that their indistinct "planets" may make as many as three millions of millions of revolutions, or even more, in a second!

No doubt you know what an atom is, but nevertheless it will define it again, according to the older ideas of science. An atom, until the recent discoveries were made, was supposed to be the smallest particle of any kind of matter that could exist. When they spoke of an atom physicists and chemists thought that they were referring to something that was no longer divisible. They could be, they believed, nothing smaller than an atom. When they got down to that they imagined that they had got to the very bottom of things. Out of atoms, as the ultimate particles, every kind of substance was built up.

225,000 Coruscules Are Contained in Atom

of Radium

Now we know that this was all wrong. An atom is not the smallest possible thing, and instead of resembling an unbreakable, indivisible particle, an atom is made up of a vast number of things so much smaller than itself that, in comparison with the whole atom, they have been likened to the sun and planets in comparison with the whole solar system.

The name coruscule has been given to these infinitesimal particles which constitute an atom, and it has been found that an atom of hydrogen probably contains a thousand coruscules; an atom of oxygen, 16,000; an atom of iron, 55,800; an atom of gold, 197,200; an atom of mercury, 200,000, and an atom of radium, 225,000. This is sufficiently marvelous in itself, but it is by no means the whole story.

Amazing motions are continually taking place in the atom. Its coruscules are in constant revolution, like the planets going round the sun. But they travel, in some cases, 100,000 miles in a second! In some substances, like radium, a certain disorder arrives in the revolutions. Owing to the escape of energy the velocities are disturbed, and certain coruscules fly away with a speed of 20,000 miles per second! It is as if the solar system should suddenly reach a critical stage and go to pieces, the earth and other planets shooting away into space.

Now, atoms, with their coruscules, combine into larger but still (invisibly small) particles, called molecules, and in these also revolutions take place. The Existence of Mind Possible in Most Minute Creature

Are we forbidden to imagine such beings? No more than we are forbidden to imagine gigantic inhabitants among the numberless worlds of space. We do not know what life is, and it is mere folly to assert that it can only manifest itself in the forms familiar to us. The quality of mind is of so incalculably fine a grain (if such an expression can be used of mind) that, as far as we can see, it might as easily be present in a creature transcending in minuteness the utmost imaginable powers of the microscope as in an animal six feet tall.

Thoughts by the Way

Ever since you got up this morning you have been "right on edge." You will be about yourself to better control.

Don't allow little things to annoy you so much.

Easier said than done? Yes, but if you let the everyday peripatetic rule you you will be constantly "on edge."

What do you suppose the children think of you by night?

If your health seems to be good, and your mode of living is normal, and you will be out of sorts at every little thing, ask yourself if you are not too proud to acknowledge that circumstances are stronger than you are. It is only the weak who drop by the wayside. The man who wins in the one case "rights best" when the problems come.

Success is mastery of self first.
